Because of BAUER HOCKEY's commitment to protect children's online privacy, if you're under 13 your parent or guardian must consent before we can collect personally identifiable information from you. So, you've got a couple of choices:

Children under the age of 13 will never be asked to consent to disclosure to outside parties, and their personal information will not be disclosed to any outside parties, except as described below. A parent's consent to our collection and use of personal information about a child will never be treated as consent to disclosure of that information to outside parties. It also does not include website hosting partners and other parties who assist us in operating our website, conducting BAUER HOCKEY's business, or servicing your child as long as such parties have agreed to keep customer data confidential. We may release personal information when we believe release is appropriate to comply with the law, enforce our Site policies, or protect ours or others' rights, property, or safety. We do not condition a child's participation in an activity or contest on the disclosure of any more personal information than is reasonably necessary to allow the child to participate in that activity.

How do we protect information about children?

We take reasonable security measures to protect personal information about children. Registration information submitted by a child's parent cannot be modified except through submission of a modified parental consent form or other written request. All such information is contained behind secured networks and we use best efforts to ensure that it is only accessible by a limited number of persons and contractors who have special access rights to such systems. All contractors have agreed to keep this information confidential.

How can parents review their child's personal information and prevent its use or disclosure?

A parent or guardian who permits personal information to be collected about their child may also submit a signed written request to review or modify the information about their child. Before disclosing information about a child, we may request that the parent provide reasonable information about the parent for identification purposes, such as the parent's name, address, phone number, or other information.

We will delete personal information about a child upon receipt of a written request from the parent or guardian who initially submitted such information. In the event of such a request, we will retain only information necessary for record keeping and customer service for past transactions.
